Police seek vandals who struck 12 times

Arlington Heights police are seeking vandals who struck 12 times between late Friday and early Monday, attacking cars, houses and lawns in the village.

One alleged vandal was arrested by police Saturday morning, and must appear in court March 18 to answer charges of driving over a lawn and possession of marijuana.

The spree began shortly before midnight Saturday morning, when vandals cracked the windshield of a car owned by Alex R. Alvarez, 609 Verde Dr., Schaumburg. The car was parked at the Down the Hatch restaurant, 1414 W. Algonquin Rd.

KEITH E. SHAW, 1314 N. Belmont Ave., left his disabled car parked on Olive Street west of Highland Avenue, but when he returned, found vandals had pushed his car into the inter-(Continued on Page 5)

Thomas Urlacher, 25, a suspect in the Aug. 21 disappearance of Mount Prospect teen-ager Barbara Glueckert, will be considered Friday by Associate Judge Marvin J. Peters of Cook County Circuit Court.

The venue change is being requested by John K. Madden, assistant public defender, who is representing Urlacher. Urlacher is charged with contributing to the delinquency of a minor in connection with the 14-yearold girl's disappearance.

Two Wheeling men have been arrested in connection with six armed robberies in Wheeling, Rolling Meadows and Northbrook. Turgay Uysaloglyu, 26, of 854 Piper Ln., was arrested early Monday police said while fleeing from Mr. Donut, 727 W. Dundee Rd., where he allegedly robbed $115 at gunpoint from a waitress at 2 a.m. He was later identified as the bandit who Feb. 8 robbed $165 at gunpoint from Mr. Donut employes. Northbrook police later charged him with two armed robberies in that town. Jon F. Rother, 18, of 343 Walnut Ave., was arrested Monday and charged with the Feb. 9 armed robbery of a Mount Prospect woman at the A&P Food Store, 1900 S. Wolf Rd., Wheeling. Rother allegedly took the woman's purse containing $60 at knifepoint. He also was charged with the armed robbery Saturday of an undetermined amount of cash from the Treasury Service Station, Golf and Algonquin roads, Rolling Meadows.

Search for son

'Roots' triggered kidnaper's act

CINCINNATI (UPI) - Fifteen hours of terror for eight hostages and the search for a long-lost son were triggered by the TV program "Roots," accused kidnaper Jessie L. Coulter and his lawyer said Monday.

Coulter and his ex-wife, Rita, each charged with kidnaping, were ordered held under $1 million bond apiece.

"It was like a spiritual awakening when I saw this picture, 'Roots,' Coulter told the Cincinnati Post in a copyrighted interview in jail. "I'm still looking for my son."

Coulter, 42, of Detroit, said his son was born Oct. 16, 1957, at Cincinnati's Catherine Booth Home for unwed mothers, but was immediately put up George' (a character on 'Roots') was for adoption.

Miz Lillian, old friends in reunion

BOMBAY, India (UPI) - Lillian Carter, the President's 78-year-old mother, Monday flew to visit the township where she cared for lepers and dysentery victims 10 years ago as a Peace Corps nurse.

Because of tight security, only one other of Mrs. Carter's former coworkers was at the airport. But a host of curious airport personnel and security men gathered around.

MRS. CARTER will travel 30 miles north today to Vikhroli, a township of 20,000 workers employed by an industrial firm. The town has a health and family planning clinic where Mrs. Carter worked in 1967 and 1968 as a 68-year-old Peace Corps volunteer.

Mrs. Aloo Mowdawalla, one of Mrs. Carter's close friends in Bombay, said everyone was looking foward to seeing her.

"We knew she would come because she had written to us that if she ever came to India, with or without her son, she would visit us at Vikhroli," Mrs. Mowdawalla said.

Mrs. Carter, her 26-year-old grandson, Chip, and other members of an American delegation flew from New Delhi, where they represented the United States at the funeral of Indian Pres. Fakhruddin Ali Ahmed.

"It is unfortunate that she had to come to India on this sad occasion, but it's a happy occasion for us," Mrs. Mowdawalla said.

Mrs. Carter said of her work as a nurse, "I did everything but fill prescriptions. I did dressings, injections, helped the doctor examine and diagnose, helped with his stitch'-em-ups, as he called them."

Airlines told to remove uncertified jet parts

WASHINGTON (UPI) - The Feder- ed as having been manufactured by Boeing 727 and 737 jets any replacement parts sold by a company allegedly using bogus Boeing identification and invalid safety certifi-

An FAA spokesman estimated the questionable parts have been installed on some 100 planes, based on information uncovered so far. He said five airlines are known to have used the parts, and at least three others may have done so.

The FAA said the key problem was that Boeing apparently did not make the parts and that they apparently had not been subjected to normal FAA safety tests.

"THERE IS NO evidence of any of these parts failing and causing a hazard," the spokesman said. "But we're ordering the airlines to remove them, just to make sure they don't cause problems."

Some of the 28 different types of parts listed by the FAA are designed for vital jobs, including wing flap control and protecting wings from ice. Many are electronic units.

The FAA said it will allow 30 days for the removal and inspection of 13 of the parts and 45 days for removal of the other 15 parts.

He said airlines confirmed to have purchased the parts included Frontier, Wein Alaska, Southwest, Braniff and American. In addition, he said, the parts "probably" also have been bought by Delta, Lufthansa and Air France.

"THE SOURCE of these unapproved parts has been identified as the ADS Supply Co., Bellevue, Wash.," an FAA statement said.

"All or most of these unapproved parts have apparently been represent-

> The FAA is investigating the possibility of "enforcement action" against Air Repair, such as removing its license, the spokesman said.

AN FAA spokesman said Boeing discovered the existence of the questionble parts in November and notified the FAA. He said the FAA issued a general notice to its field personnel Jan. 28 to notify them of a possible

At that time, sources said, the FAA suspected eight parts. Since then, they said, it has identified 20 others.

"The FAA assessment indicates that at this time there is no indication that an immediate hazard exists with the use of these parts," the FAA said. "However, at the same time, we do not know that they conform to FAA requirements and further investigation is continuing.

"FAA field personnel will closely monitor the . . . inspection of all parts removed from service to assure that an in-depth evaluation of all such parts is made relative to their airworthiness."

The spokesman said the parts included landing gear accessory units, a position switching unit for wing flaps and slats, a fuel system unit, fire detection equipment, air conditioning and heating units, a hydraulic pump unit, engine and wing anti-ice modules and an oral warning for a crash avoi-

Junior Achievement Fair This Weekend

Junior Achievement groups from throughout the area will turn the mall into an industrial beehive this Saturday and Sunday, February 19 and 20. Nearly 40 youthful businesses will offer a variety of wares which they produce and market. Each JA group is sponsored by a local business organization which serves as its counselor.

Nearly 500 young people will be participating in this trade fair, open from 9:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. Saturday and noon to 5:00 p.m. on Sunday.

Mount Prospect MAYOR TEICHERT will cut the ribbon opening this fair at 10:00 a.m. Saturday. For even more enjoyment THE NEW DAWNS, a contemporary singing group, will perform both days at 2:00 p.m.

ILLINOIS DEPARTMENT OF AGRICUL-TURE will conduct a taste demonstration on a variety of food products including cheese, potato chips, cookies, etc., during mall hours Wednesday, February 16 through Saturday, February 19.

The purpose of the exhibit is to acquaint the consumer with the high quality of state products.

NEXT WEEKEND you'll want to catch the area Pinewood Derby Runoffs for Black Hawk and Polaris Cub Scouts starting at 10:00 a.m. Saturday. Polaris will lead off; Black Hawk will begin inspection at 1:30 p.m. with racing at 2:00 p.m.

Koeneman to seek post of assessor

Herman F. Koeneman, 61, of 908 Fernandez Ave., Arlington Heights, has announced his candidacy as an independent for Wheeling Township assessor, giving "one-party rule" for the past 20 years in the township as his reason for seeking office.

"With complete domination by one party, we lose the checks and balances which are central to our form of government. New faces in public office bring with them new views and fresh ideas," said Koeneman, an employe of The Cook County Forest Preserve District.

Koeneman said that as assessor he would make available information on tax relief for senior citizens and tax exemptions to homeowners for home improvements.

He said it is the assessor's duty to ensure real estate is properly assessed and equity is maintained among homeowners.

KOENEMAN ALSO HAS been employed as a deputy assessor in the Office of the Cook County Assessor, a claims examiner for the Illinois Dept. of Insurance and as a real estate salesman.

He was graduated from the American Insitute of Banking and served in the 83rd Infantry Division in World War II. He is married and has four Koeneman is running against the Independent Coalition Party's candidate for assessor, William Hogendorp, and GOP incumbent Marshall Theroux.

ALL ANNOUNCED candidates for the April 5 election met the Monday filing deadline. The Independent Coalition Party slate includes: Albert A. Peters, for township supervisor and auditor candidates, Mary F. Corzen, Earl F. Sauter, Richard G. Kerwin and Raymond J. Carroll.

Other Independent Party Coalition candidates include: Vincent Franzone for highway commissioner, Hogendorp for assessor, Patricia A. Carr for township clerk and Joe Ellen Clawes for collector.

The GOP ticket includes Supervisor Ethel Kolerus, incumbents Merle Willis, Jack Gilligan, Bill Reid and Benjamin B. Caesar Jr. for auditor posts.

Other incumbent GOP candidates include: Arthur Olsen, highway commissioner; Theroux, assessor; Dorothy Hauff, township clerk and Fremd Yonkers, tax collector.

No tax hike in town budget: Hall

Elk Grove Township's tax rate increase in town funds, which is offset probably will not increase next year, by about $50,000 remaining from the despite an increase in township budget, says Township Supervisor Richard

Hall's estimate is based on preliminary budget figures to be discussed tonight at 8 p.m. at the town hall, 2400 Arlington Heights Rd.

Hall said most of that increase will pay for social workers' salaries. Two new programs, a crisis home for boys and an after-school care program, also are included in the budget.

Pick April 9 for Dist. 59 vote

There is just one logical date for the referendum on whether to form a unit school district in Elk Grove Township Dist. 59 and that is April 9, the date of the scheduled school board elec-

That date would save voters the hassle of going to the polls twice within a week and would save taxpayers the cost of two separate elections.

We believe the Committee of 10, which is promoting the unit district, erred in asking Cook County School Supt. Richard Martwick for an April 2 date.

By law, Martwick can set the referendum anytime between March 18 and June 6. Thomas Guy, chairman of the Committee of 10, said the April 2 date is good because it gives suf-

The likely result of having two separate elections within one week is one which neither proponents nor opponents of the unit district should wish - a lower voter turnout.

A new district should not be formed - nor an old one retained — under a cloud of apathy. We hope the Committee of 10 will change its recommendation and we urge Superintendent Martwick in any case to set the referendum date on the logical date, April 9.

Should the new district be approved, voters will have to return to the polls at least once more before July 1 to elect its board of education.

PINE BLUFF, Ark. - Among the many advantages of having a mainly black branch of the state university nearby is the parade of fashion. To see what the with-it citizen will be wearing five or ten years from now, a stroll on campus is a small adventure in stylistic prophecy. The peaked lapels, vests and vents just appearing in the men's fashion section were old hat Bluff. As the school integrates, it seems to be losing some of its prophetic touch, but that may be the price of progress.

There are fashions in oratory, too, or doesn't seem to be as catching. Which is a pity, considering its power. The newest wrinkle in the art is personified by Jesse Jackson in Chicago, who's introducing a new and almost middle-class emphasis on selfdiscipline and self-reliance in his speeches. His style, thank goodness, is still rhythmic but his message is alinterests of the black community at heart will say Thank Goodness for that, too. If Brother Jackson's style continues to catch on, Black Bourgeoisie may cease to be a term of denigration in black rhetoric.

THE JESSE-JACKSON style can be divined in the parade of speakers that come through the local branch of the university. One of them was Lerone Bennett, senior editor of Ebony magazine. Bennett raised one of the most obvious grievances of black society, and dangers to all of American Paul Greenberg society, when he complained that "we and coat and trousers) years ago at are losing a generation of young the University of Arkansas at Pine blacks" to unemployment. "Officially," he said, unemployment of young black men is twice as high as young white men and, unofficially, the rate is four or five times as high.

He suggests a new Civilian Conservation Corps to decrease unemployment of young blacks. Such a revival would help decrease unemployment among young people of all races, and also fit neatly into current concerns about the natural environmost puritanica. And many with the ment. A new CCC would conserve, and redeem, human resources as

> THERE ARE TOO many young people - regardless of race, creed, color or national origin - who now seem doomed to lives of noisy desperation. They seem ignorant of opportunity, frustrated by the economy, and unable to be of much use to themselves or others. Bennett dubs them our own Lost Generation.

Unfortunately, Jimmy Carter's economic package at this point seems to put more emphasis on providing tax rebates than on jobs. A number of voices have been raised against such an order of priorities, and not just from the labor unions. Arthur Burns, the chief of the Federal Reserve System, long has expressed his doubts about the effect of tax cuts across the board and his support for more jobs - provided directly by the government if necessary. Burns is no more sponsibility as a concerned, intelligent radical than the loan officer at your bank, but like the editor of Ebony he precious gifts. UNFORTUNATELY, Editor Bennett's talk shared a common failing of such presentations — the tendency to intersperse the most serious of concerns with some silly and (when you think about them) racist remarks. Like his assumption that no white can view or report the condition of blacks acceptably — the obverse of the old assumption that no black could ever understand or transmit the import of events beyond his own immediate ken. Mr. Bennett's omission of the white unemployed was all the more callous for being almost automatic. As editor of Ebony, a kind of separate-but-equal version of the old Life magazine, Mr. Bennett has a black constituency to address. One might wish that he would address it more and pander to it less. She asks credit for Ford, Nixon

After the inauguration, parade and events of that historic day, it amused me to hear Chancellor and Brinkley and other TV newscasters expound on the fact that Pres. Carter walked down Pennsylvania Avenue with peaceful crowds on each side of the street, no jeers, no signs, no protesting shouts. . . As if he were the reason that these protesting elements were non-existent.

The only reason Pres. Carter and his family were able to walk down that street was due to Pres. Nixon's accomplishment to end the Vietnam war and to Pres. Ford's ability to maintain peace and tranquility here and abroad. It was Nixon's and Ford's combined efforts that enabled Pres. Carter to walk down Pennsylvania Avenue. That 1.2 mile walk of Jan. 21, 1977 may have been a historic walk, (as well as a shrewd political manuever) but let's see if it will be just as historic in 1980 when Pres. Carter will be able to pave the way to enable himself or a future new President to take that same walk, as a result of his accomplishments. To be able to maintain the same caim that he personally experienced when he stepped into the smooth transition that was so honorably bestowed upon him by Pres. Patronage stays in federal judiciary

WASHINGTON - (NEA) - Shortly after last November's election, a Carter transition aide visited a key member of the Senate Judiciary Committee. "Senator," he said, "how would you feel if the first time you learned of a judicial appointment was when the blue slip came over?"

"Son," the senator replied with a chuckle, "there's something you don't quite understand. We like to WRITE the name on the blue slip, not read

That incident, in a nutshell, explains President Carter's strategic retreat from his campaign proclamation that "all federal judges and prosecutors should be appointed strictly on the basis of merit without any consideration of political aspect or in-

CARTER THOUGHT he had a perfect way to take politics out of the appointment process. He said he would establish independent "blue ribbon" commissions to screen interested candidates and would make his nominations only from a list of finalists approved by those commissions.

Unfortunately, however, the president failed to reckon with the time- firmation or rejection. honored prerogative of senators to influence, if not dictate, the appointment of federal judges and prosecutors within their own states.

Over the years, members of the Senate have abused their power to confirm or reject these appointments to blackmail the president into nominating candidates of their choosing rather than his own.

THE RESULT has been a serious distortion of the constitutional separation of powers, and a redress of the balance is sorely needed. But it's not going to be easy, as Carter has already recognized.

Atty. Gen. Griffin Bell told the Senate Judiciary Committee last month that Carter now plans to institute his merit selection system only for nominees to the U.S. Circuit Courts of Ap-

He said independent commissions appointed by the president will be created in each of the nation's 11 judicial circuits to screen candidates for appellate court vacancies and recommend five names to Carter. The president will then submit one of those names to the Senate for con-

"With district judges," Bell testified, "we are going to leave the selection just as it is - with the senators." He added that the administration hopes some senators will voluntarily establish their own non-partisan screening committees to select candidates for district court seats.

THERE ARE only 97 appeals court judgeships compared with 349 district court seats, so the proposal outlined by Bell is far more modest than Carter's original campaign plan to remove all judicial appointments from the political sphere.

The administration is also moving cautiously on changing the method of selecting U.S. Attorneys, most of whom now owe their jobs to senatorial patronage.

Bell told the Judiciary Committee there will be no screening committees for prosecutorial nominees, saying he personally will review candidates of such jobs in consultation with members of the Senate.

"IT IS A BIG bite to start on commission selection systems for all these people at one time," Bell said. "If we start out on circuit judges and the senators are persuaded this would be a good way to handle district judges, doubtless we will get to this on U.S. attorneys; but we will not do that im-

BIG BUSINESS

Troubleshooters balance between customer gripes, company policy

by LEA TONKIN

For every grouchy consumer whose new car won't start, whose waitress was careless and whose dream vacation to Hawaii turned sour, there's a troubleshooter to handle the gripes.

It's not an easy job. Whether the title is customer relations representative, district supervisor or company president, the troubleshooter must perform a balancing act between customer demands and company policy.

Yet there are rewards for the successful troubleshooter. Here are three suburban consumer specialists who thrive on being where the buck stops.

JOAN TEKIPPE

"You have to like people contact, to talk to them and to see what a customer thinks," said Joan Tekippe, director of service for the seven Henrici's Steak & Lobster restaurants. Ms. Tekippe, who is based at Henrici's home office in Des Plaines, often begins her work day with visits to one of the restaurants in Arlington Heights, Chicago, St. Louis and Min-

"Most customer comments are sincere," Ms. Tekippe said. "I take this seriously, that they are valid com-

But there is much more to customer service than the art of listening. Ms. Tekippe said she believes her responsibility for training waitresses is an essential link in a companywide commitment to service.

"On the job training — that's where that troubleshooting comes in. My challenge is to get them to have the same motivation that I had when I was in their job," she said.

WHEN A WAITRESS has pride in the service she can offer and the selection of foods served at the restaurant, the feeling is shared by her customers. Ms. Tekippe said it's the kind of customer service which pays off in increased business, fewer complaints, satisfied employes and more profits.

"THERE'S MORE TO customer service than the art of listening, said Joan Tekippe, service director, Henrici's Steak & Lobster di-

"In the four years I've been doing this, there was one time I thought I had it licked," Ms. Tekippe said. "But every day is a challenge. It hasn't been easy. I've worked a lot of 16hour days."

Sometimes there are hassles in store for the troubleshooter, such as when a problem only can be resolved by negotiation with top management. Ms. Tekippe said her biggest satisfaction on the job comes when a customer or a waitress spontaneously puts in a good word for Henrici's service. "It's the pride I share in an outstanding job. I love my job. Can't you

LEE HOSKINS

At Hoskins Chevrolet Inc., 175 N. Arlington Heights Rd., Elk Grove Village, Lee Hoskins, director of parts and service, said he has noticed during the past two years that customers increasingly are willing to question and complain.

"It's good for business. People are calling more. But that's the only way to find out what's on their minds," Hoskins said.

Hard starting and hesitation are probably the biggest source of new car buyer complaints, Hoskins said. Sometimes there are adjustments to be made. But there are times when buyers unrealistically expect new cars to start up and accelerate just like their old cars and the engine "ping" may be due to lower gasoline octane ratings.

"You have to be a good listener. If necessary, you go out for a drive with the customer," Hoskins said.

A company brochure called, "What to do if you have a complaint," is sent out with a car buyer's bill. Hoskins said a system of followup mailings and telephone calls when necessary is designed to meet customer service questions.

CUSTOMER COMPLAINTS follow a seasonal pattern, Hoskins said. "In the winter it's hard starting. In the spring, it's things like rattles."

Reading from customer response cards, Hoskins notes several recent entries have favorable comments about service and costs while others do not.

There are times when a service customer or car buyer is not satisfied with the dealership's policies, Hoskins conceded. A zone service manager, and finally the automaker's corporate offices can be contacted by irate con-

An auto dealer who sidesteps consumer complaints will not be in business long, Hoskins said. He seconds service manager Jerry Braun's belief that good service is a sure way to let customers know they're welcome back for future business.

A service manager's day may be filled with more complaints than compliments, Hoskins said. "But it's a good feeling, on a hard day, to have somebody say 'thank you.'

MICHELLE HELIN

"My biggest challenge is solving the day to day problems of people working together," said Michelle Helin, the regional manager for Thomas Cook Inc., travel service.

As the company's first female regional manager, Ms. Helin is responwouldn't be in this business to start with," said Michelle Helin, regional manager for Thomas Cook sible "for keeping things running smoothly, handling the consumer and his complaints," at five travel offices in Schaumburg and other Chicago area locations.

"It's not like a customer going to the department store, where it's just you, the store and the product," Ms. Helin said of the travel business. "We're selling a service. It's something intangible, something we don't control."

When a ticket agent is rude to a Cook customer, there isn't much that can be done to take back those remarks. "But our policy is, everyone is going to have a problem sometime. There isn't a problem that isn't solvable," Ms. Helins said.

WHEN A TRAVELER has problems, Ms. Helin said, "either we fail to deliver and we hope it doesn't happen often, or it's someone outside the company.'

For example, special arrangements had to be made at the last minute for one local traveler who ventured to California on a fly-drive package vacation, after it was discovered that his outstanding traffic tickets in Illinois prevented normal car rental arrangements.

Spur-of-the moment decisions must be made to solve problems ranging from travel delays to illness and lost baggage. "You get used to it," Ms. Helin said.

When foreign travelers in the United States encounter snags in their travel plans, Cook personnel offer counsel. Ms. Helin said she helped a local hospital track down the proper insurance authorities when an international traveler who became ill in Elk Grove Village was treated, and then left without paying a $24,000 bill.

'We have a lot more skepticism in the last few years," Ms. Helin said. "Customers want to know about bonding, about our people, the pros and cons of different arrangements."

"We find a lot of complaints are due to a lack of education about a tour," Ms. Helin said. She added, "If you have a problem and you don't get something you paid for, you should ask for a refund."

Ms. Helin says she is a perfectionist and she expects others to do their best. "You care very much, or you wouldn't be in this business to start

Economy begins at home; U.S. ahead of most nations

"Stop! Alledged Thief!"

NEW YORK - Any time you're ready to despair about the American economy, take a look around. By the standards of our friends and enemies, we're not doing half bad.

The Communist nations can be dismissed speedily. Nikita Khrushchev's boast that his country would "bury" us economically already is exposed as pitifully empty. No Communist state has yet come close to solving even such basic questions as food and shelter, to say nothing of more sophisticated amenities for its population. Our toughest economic competition invariably has come from those who have emulated our private enterprise system, not those who have sneered

Western Europe and Japan? Japan, which in World War II lost its dreams of economic empire, since then has exceeded those dreams by practicing capitalism. The fact that it is now, stripped of its colonies, thought of as a great "Western" economic power should be dramatic point enough for those capable of understanding it.

NOW, PARTLY because of extreme dependence on Mideastern oil, Japan's remarakable growth rate has been reduced to a United States style of 5 to 6 per cent. Inflation is even higher (8 to 9 per cent), and that is the new pressure point to watch as Louis Rukeyser

Japan struggles to revive its economic "miracle."

The other "miracle" economy was that of our other World War II foe Germany. The West German growth rate has slowed to below that of the U.S. Recovery from recession has been more sluggish there. West German labor costs are rising so rapidly that in some cases it is already cheaper to employ American workers.

Britain? Operating on its third budget in 12 months, the British government is fighting to contain inflation (running around 15 per cent) and move the economy off dead center. The country looks wistfully toward the incoming North Sea oil to help a chronic balance of payments problem.

In short, the troubled United States economy still has a more meaningful commitment to freedom, and more dazzling economic prospects, than can be found in combination anywhere else in the world.

Gulf urged to give more natural gas

A group of 31 House members Monday urged federal energy chief James Schlesinger to go to court to force Gulf Oil Corp. to provide more natural gas to 21 states including Illinois. Rep. Andrew Maguire, D-N.J., wrote to Schlesinger, citing a January 1964 agreement by Gulf to supply Texas Eastern Transmission Corp. to serve the 21 states with 625 million cubic feet of gas per day. "Since 1971, however, Gulf's deliveries under the contract have averaged far less than that," said the letter, which 30 other Democrats and Republicans signd with Maguire.

Steelworkers open pact talks

The United Steelworkers union opened 1977 contract negotiations with the nation's top 10 steelmakers Monday, demanding more pay, a shorter work week and lifetime income security. An existing no-strike agreement precludes a nationwide walkout in the basic steel industry when the present contract expires Aug. 1, but union leaders emphasized they still have a right to strike locally on plant issues.

Suburban National gives dividend

The Suburban National Bank of Elk Grove Village board of directors recently declared a cash dividend of $1.50 a share, Thomas Johannesen, president, said. The bank, located at 500 E. Devon Ave., Elk Grove Village, had assets of more than $11 million at the end of 1976.

OPEC leaders to talk pricing

Economists from the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries opened a week-long meeting Monday amid reports of an imminent compromise on the price split that has thrown the world oil trade into confusion. OPEC spokesman Hamid Zaheri said the economic experts' session did not necessarily indicate a special meeting of world oil ministers will be called in the near future, but it was a possibility. Government sources in Kuwait said Saudi Arabia and the United Arab Emirates, the two states that opposed the 11 other OPEC nations' demand for a 10 per cent price hike last December, may accept a compromise to align crude oil prices at an effective price increase of 7 per cent to 7.5 per cent above

Full gas deliveries restored

The Peoples Gas, Light and Coke Co. said Monday it has restored full deliveries of natural gas to all its industrial and commercial customers whose supplies were cut back four weeks ago because of the severe cold weather. The new order restores service to the remaining 200 large customers who were kept on restrictions last week. Some companies included in the cutback were U.S. Steel Corp., Republic Steel Corp., and the Hawthorne Works of General Electric. The company said supplies remained tight and cautioned customers to continue fuel-saving measures.

Bank's assets reach record

Earnings, assets and deposits at the First National Bank of Des Plaines reached record levels during 1976, Arthur R. Weiss, president, said. Net income after securities gains totaled $1,883,000 during 1976 compared with $1,751,000 in 1975. A share earned $3.88 compared with $3.16 a year earlier. Total assets reached $175,399,000, and deposits totaled $146,957,000 at the end of 1976. Shareholders received $1.25 in dividends during the past year. Predicting "a good year ahead," Weiss noted the bank will move to the new First National Bank Building in downtown Des Plaines during 1977.

Also, many investors were disturbed by reports Saudi Arabia was demanding the United States support Arab causes in the Middle East or face higher oil prices.

Tension rising on outskirts of Beirut

Syrian troops of the Arab peace-keeping force have withdrawn several miles from their positions in southern Lebanon, political sources said Monday. Tension rose at Palestinian camps on the southern outskirts of Beirut amid reports the Arab troops plan to launch raids to recover caches of heavy weapons. Troops mounted heavy patrols around the camps, stopping cars and checking for weapons.

The sources said Syrian troops in the area of Nabatiyeh withdrew 2½ miles from the outlying villages of Kfar Tibnit and Jarmaq. Israel has complained the troops in southern Lebanon were too close to the undefined "red line," beyond which it has said Arab forces would be regarded as a security threat.

Meddling may mean war: Amin

Ugandan President Idi Amin Monday accused an Anglican archbishop of masterminding a coup attempt with help from Israel and Tanzanian President Julius Nyerere. He said it could lead to war with Tanzania. Despite reports that hundreds of soldiers and civilians died in a bloody purge following the coup attempt, Amin said only two persons died in the unrest.

The Ugandan president said he summoned Janani Luwum, archbishop for Uganda, Burundi and Rwanda, to his statehouse Monday and told him four Ugandan tribesmen arrested in a security sweep had implicated him. Amin also said his army had uncovered three caches of weapons. Amin warned Tanzania not to meddle in Ugandan affairs and said as long as former Ugandan President Milton Obote, whom Amin ousted six years ago, remains in exile in Tanzania, "a military confrontation leading to war" is likely.

Aussie cops nab kidnaper

Australian police Monday rescued a school teacher and his nine young pupils kidnapped from their one - room school by a man who had tried a similar abduction five years ago. Also rescued were four passengers of a truck who were abducted by the gunman, identified as John Eastwood, when it became involved in a highway accident with the van in which Eastwood had the teacher and children. Police sharpshooters wounded the gunman in the shoulder and leg during a brief shootout at Tarra Valley, 70 miles southwest of the Wooreen elementary school. Wooreen is 60 miles southeast of Melbourne.

WHAT'S A MOTHER to do when she has 16 mouths to feed and only 10 places at the dinner table? In the case of Sabra, a Newbury Park, Calif. Great Dane, a little help in the form of baby bottles full of milk came to her aid. The only problem with this arrangement is that the dog's owner, writer Rachel English, must be with the dogs every time they are fed. The litter was 18 and the surviving 16 pups may be a record.

Good consumer relations wanted

President Carter told Ralph Nader and other consumer leaders Monday he wants "a good relationship" with all consumer groups and welcomes their advice on issues ranging from agriculture to welfare reform. "I need your advice," Carter said. "What I want to do is have a good relationship with all the consumer groups." The President and Vice President Walter Mondale met with seven consumer leaders in the Cabinet Room for more than an hour. Afterwards, Nader said Carter reaffirmed his support for a consumer protection agency and came out in favor of consumer class action suits.

Nader said Carter also indicated there would be some "excellent appointments" made in areas of consumer concern. Carter said he not only wants advice on consumer-related appointments, but "also on matters that relate to all the departments."

Budget inadequate: Cabinet duo

Two members of President Carter's Cabinet complained Monday he told them hiking the budget to give their departments substantially more money for fiscal 1978 was "something we just cannot do." Patricia Harris, secretary of Housing and Urban Development, told Carter the budget prepared for HUD by President Ford before he left office was inadequate. "We are a starved department," she said.

Joseph Califano, secretary of Health, Education and Welfare, said the Ford administration's budget for HEW was almost $4 billion below the level required to maintain present services. Carter, according to assistant press secretary Walt Wurfel, "noted most of the requests he received were for substantial amounts of increases, not cuts," and said: "This is something we just cannot do."

Vance heads for Mideast

Secretary of State Cyrus Vance headed for the Middle East Monday to show the United States "intends to play an active role" in seeking a lasting peace between Israel and its Arab neighbors. Vance, in separate interviews with two Arab journalists — from Egypt and Syria — and five Israeli correspondents, said he is carrying no specific proposals on the Carter administration's first foray into the troubled area.

U.S. officials described his week-long mission as "the first step" in the new administration's involvement in Arab-Israeli negotiations

Court frees Hustler chief Flynt on bail

CINCINNATI (UPI) — The First Ohio District Court of Appeals Monday set bail for convicted Hustler magazine publisher Larry Flynt at $55,000 and Flynt was released from jail one hour later.

Flynt said "no human being alive" will prevent him from selling his magazine and that he will continue to sell the publication "anywhere in the country, if I have to stand on the street corner and do it."

"Hustler magazine will be available to anybody who chooses to read it," Flynt said at a news conference immediately after his release. "It will be for sale in Hamilton County and anywhere that people want to buy it."

A three-judge panel set bail at $50,000 for the conviction of engaging in organized crime and $5,000 on the pandering obscenity conviction.

FLYNT HAD been in the Hamilton County jail in Cincinnati since last Tuesday afternoon when he was convicted of engaging in organized crime and pandering obscenity in publishing Hustler, a national men's magazine. The case is being appealed.

"Neither Fred Cartolano (assistant Hamilton County prosecutor) or Simon Leis (Hamilton County prosecutor) nor no human being alive can keep me from selling my magazine in Hamilton County or anywhere," said Flynt, who reached a fever pitch during the news conference.

"I'm not defending Hustler magazine," Flynt said. "Only the principles of the right to publish it. To people who accuse me of hiding behind the First Amendment, thank God we have the First Amendment to hide behind or where would people like William Morrissey (Flynt's trial judge) have us?"

Flynt said he may have some distribution problems in Hamilton County. He said many retailers may feel "intimidated."

Flynt quickly changed from his jailhouse garb of blue denims to a threepiece suit and then signed the bond papers. He said he would spend the evening with his wife and family.

"It does feel good to be out," he

THE PROSECUTION and Flynt's attorneys argued for 35 minutes before the appeals judges Monday in the second bail hearing for Flynt.

Cartolano argued that bond should not be set.

"I think the magazine poses a danger to the community," Cartolano told the judges. "Mr. Flynt cannot say to you, 'I'm not a danger to the community.' I think he is by the actions of his publication."

Fahringer said, "We feel bail should be granted unless it appears he will flee or if he is a danger to the community. We feel he should be shielded from suffering any punishment should his conviction be overturned. This is a man convicted of publishing a magazine. The defendant has not committed any crime of violence. The magazine hasn't hurt anyone."

Fahringer also argued that to allow Flynt "to languish in jail" while a First Amendment case is being appealed "would turn the clock back on what civilization has given us."

Kiritsis gets added charges for abduction

INDIANAPOLIS (UPI) — Authorities filed three more charges Monday against Anthony Kiritsis in the abduction of a real estate executive. The new charges increased Kiritsis' potential bond to $1.15 million as efforts were under way to raise bail money for him.

Kiritsis, 44, was held on $850,000 bond Friday after he surrendered to police Thursday night and released Richard Hall, 42, a hostage he had held 63 hours.

Another preliminary hearing was scheduled Tuesday in Municipal Court, at which time the additional charges will be read and the bond increase asked.

POLICE SAID the additional charges include assault and battery with intent to kill, violation of a fire-arms act, and auto banditry in the commission of a felony. Authorities are asking $100,000 bond be set on each additional count.

Kiritsis already faces charges of kidnaping, commission of a felony while armed, inflicting physical injury in the commission of a crime, commission of a crime of violence while armed, obtaining a signature by threat, armed robbery and disorderly conduct.

Two brothers of Kiritsis have established a defense fund and are reported trying to raise bond money.

George Martz, Marion County deputy prosecutor, said he had reports a local bail-bonding company was willing to finance a bond of up to $1 million.

Friendlier Mexican relations seen

Although the South Lawn ceremony was more formal than forecast, the accent was on neighborliness and warmer relations.

Carter told Lopez the fact he was the first foreign head of state to be welcomed by the new administration "is an indication of the importance we attach to our neighbors to the south."

CARTER NOTED Canadian Prime Minister Pierre Trudeau will visit next week, and stressed the importance of "close continuing consultations between natural allies and friends, and particularly our neighbors."

He said Mexico and the United States, besides a common border, also share a "common hope, common future, common problems and common friendship."

Lopez replied, "Good neighbors must also be good friends and we want to be very good friends." He told Carter he was convinced U. S.-Mexican problems can be solved if approached with "good faith and in frienship."

"We have to talk clearly about our problems and try to solve them," the Mexican leader added. "Let us hope that myopic, ambitious and ill-intentioned people in both countries do nothing to try to impede that."

AFTER THE CEREMONY, the presidents went to Carter's Oval Office where, Press Sec. Jody Powell said, they discussed "a wide range of issues, both global and bilateral" — trade, immigration, "a lengthy discussion" on narcotics, agriculture and the "problem of the Americans jailed talking in Spanish, a spokesman said.

Vice President Walter Mondale, Sec. of State Cyrus Vance, Mexican foreign minister Santiago Roel and National Security adviser Zbigniew
Brzezinski also attended the Oval Office session.

Relations between the two countries have been somewhat strained in recent years as former Mexican President Luis Echevarria sided with the bloc of developing nations against the United States on a number of issues.

ALTHOUGH THE WHITE House originally said the almost-regal state welcomes of past administrations would be toned down in the Carter era, Lopez and his wife, Carmen, were greeted with most of the fanfare and ceremonial touches of the past.

The president and his wife, members of the diplomatic corps, Cabinet officials and about 2,000 spectators, mostly government workers, were on hand for Lopez' arrival. He got an honor guard of troops from the five services, a 21-gun salute and a long red carpet to the bunting-draped podium where the two leaders exchanged greetings.

However the bands did not play "Hail to the Chief" and "Ruffles and Flourishes" at the ceremonial gathering.

Carter spoke in English and Lopez in Spanish although each speaks the other's language.

The versatile scoop

Fashion's mood for spring is bareness and fantasy expressed in the many peasant and gypsy styles being shown, and the National Hairdressers and Cosmetologists Association coiffure design committee has come up with a hair style to match the mood.

It's called the scoop, a semi-short, softly textured shape that features volume over the ears and the forehead.

"The scoop offers simplicity with enough volume for versatile styling," says Lyal McCaig, styles director for the hairdressers association.

It is designed for bouyant hair movement. "Today's hair must be precision cut to move naturally and still fall back into beautiful form," explains McCaig.

There are a variety of styles for the scoop, only a few of them shown . . . wispy, wavy, a combination of both, one with a naturally smooth look and cuts with bi-level and tri-level dimensions.

Enhancing any one of them will be the variety of hair ornaments that are fashionable for spring and summer. This includes combs, barettes, bows, ribbons, hairpins and artificial and live flowers.

For extra fullness or for wispy curls, the hairdressers organization stylists suggest perming the hair. Color will be multi-faceted with underlying shades of a deeper tone, graduating to lighter colors with much sheen and glaze.

It's the young who patronize reducing salons

by DAVID L. LANGFORD

The girls in their leotards were sprawled on the kelly green carpet among chrome exercise machines as they listened to a pep talk from a lean and dapper man with a Jimmy Carter

They were giving him a hard time. "Why are none of your instructors heavy-set women?" one asked.

"Yeah, and all of the girls in your commercials are beautiful models," said another.

Dr. Richard Proctor, fitness expert, dodged the issue as best he could. After all, he's in the sex appeal busi-

He said reducing salons today cater less to the fat, middle-aged matron than to the young woman hoping to improve her figure for either professional or romantic reasons.

"THE MEAN average age of our clients is about 25, and it's been going down constantly over the past several years," Proctor said. "And usually they are girls interested in attracting a man, or a young housewife who has just had a couple of kids."

"A typical complaint is, 'My fanny's too big' or 'I want to improve my bustline'."

Proctor, a former high school pole vaulter who weighs 156 pounds at age 45, is president and co-founder of a chain of more than 250 exercise clinics, Elaine Powers Salons.

Proctor says of his instructors, "They don't have to be Miss America types, but it helps."

IT TAKES AT least 35 to 40 minutes to give hair a proper styling, according to Mario Tricoci as he works over Diane Walsh. Tricoci has been in the hair business for 18 years. He is co-owner of a beauty school in Elmhurst and works in his new Woodfield salon.

> PLUSH CARPETING, muted colors and a modern design characterize the new beauty salon in Woodfield Mall. Cost of the new salon is estimated at $100,000, and owner Mario Tricoci says it's worth it if his employees and clients feel at home in the sophisticated but functional surroundings.

Take care of your feet and keep them healthy closed in sometimes ill-fitting shoes, and put up with rapid weight changes. Yet feet are probably the most neglected part of the body. More than 80 per cent of the American adult population suffers from some type of foot

More than one-fourth of the bones in the body are found in the feet. If feet are abused - and most of us abuse them - the results can be aching, sore feet and an uncomforable, pained look which can spoil even the most attractive face.

Why not make feet one more beauty asset and make them healthy and comfortable at the same time?

These guidelines will help in starting a foot care routine for healthy, beautiful feet:

The doctor says

Vitamins 'free' in balanced diet

I want to start taking vitamins and wondered if you could tell me how many grams of what vitamins I should take and when. Should I gradually get into this or can I take them right away?

You are already into vitamins if you are eating. A normal well balanced diet includes all the vitamins and minerals you should need for health if you have no medical problems.

Most vitamin preparations have a label which lists the Recommended Daily Dietary Allowances (RDA) and the amount in the preparation. However, I am sending you The Health Letter number 4-6 that provides a table of all this information for different age groups as prepared by the Food and Nutrition Board of the National Academy of Sciences. As you will see, vitamins are usually measured in units or milligrams. Others who want information on vitamins can send 50 cents with a long-stamped, selfaddressed envelope for mailing. Write to me in care of Paddock Publications, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y.

I do not disapprove of people taking an all-purpose daily vitamin preparation — one with iron for women in the child-bearing years — if there is any question of whether or not their diet is adequate. However, it is probably best to get one's vitamins from a well balanced diet that includes enough of all the different food groups to provide the daily requirements.

People who live alone, those on diets and those who have illnesses or poor eating habits may benefit from a daily vitamin tablet. Taking large amounts of vitamins above the RDA can cause trouble and anyone who needs large doses of medicine for a medical problem should be under a doctor's care.

I have a physical problem that is somewhat embarrasing to relate. I'm 34 and I have involuntary erections which have occurred nightly for over two years.

This has become distressing to me. I have seen a psychiatrist who found me okay and a urologist. He gave me an X ray of my kidneys after dye injection, checked me and said he didn't think I needed a cystoscopic examination and that I was okay.

I really am perplexed and needless to say am tired most mornings due to being awakened one or two times nightly with this.

Have you heard of this before and what should I do next?

Rejoice! There is not a thing wrong with you. Every normal male has the same reaction. If they don't, there is something wrong with them.

An erection occurs in response to brain mechanisms. They occur regularly many times each night during sleep and are related to the perids in a brain wave that identify "rapid eye movement" (REM). These responses even occur in the uterus in the unborn

Your letter is a good example of why people need education on normal sexual function and responses. You have worried needlessly about a response that is as normal as breathing. The only abnormal thing about it is your preoccupation about it. If learning that this is the normal pattern, usually many times a night for the normal male, doesn't relieve your anxiety, then you have a psychological hang-up and that might need further investigation. But your response that you say you are worried about is quite

Certain folks should avoid chicken livers

Dear Dorothy: We had some wonderful chicken livers (with eggs) at a bridge luncheon. Our hostess said they were a good buy now as many producers are packing chicken pieces without the giblets. But one of the party said she heard chicken livers weren't good for most people. First time any of the rest of us ever heard such a thing. Can you give us the straight facts? — M.R.C.

The return question is, what does your friend mean by "most" people? For those who have no food restrictions, chicken livers not only are delicious but high in iron, vitamin A, potassium and phosphorus. But they are high in sodium and cholesterol and so those who are on either low-salt or low-cholesterol diets are well advised to pass up chicken livers, tempting as they may be.

Dear Dorothy: We spilled paraffin on the indoor-outdoor carpet in our kitchen. Letting it harden didn't help in getting it up. Suggestions? - Lola Wolfenbarger Hate to carry bad news, but since indoor-outdoor carpet doesn't clean as easily as the regular kind, you may find traces remaining even by following the regular procedure. Anyway, there's only one way to get paraffin or wax off a carpet. It has to be scraped up with the dull side of a knife. Then white paper towels should be put over the stain. A warm iron will draw up the wax and deposit it on the paper, which has to be moved about as the stain is absorbed. Any remaining wax comes off with a good cleaning solvent. I'm just unsure about your carpet.

Dear Dorothy: When the young ones come in from playing their boots are often wet. I've found a way to dry them quickly putting in the nozzle of my hair dryer. Blows them dry in a hurry. - Maryann Towey

Birds, bees portrayed realistically

Telling youngsters about the birds and the bees is a real stumper for most parents and teachers. But, ABC seems to have come up with the perfect formula for explaining all about babies in the after school special, "My Mom's Having a Baby."

The one-hour drama, which airs Wednesday at 3:30 p.m. on Channel 7, is a simple, sensitive, realistic and scientifically accurate approach to the business of pregnancy and birth which is more than what children usually get in answer to their questions.

The show is the story of a family making ready for a new baby. The father is trying to be helpful, the mother is anxious to end her nine-month ordeal and the only son, Petey Evans, played by Shane Sinutko, is experiencing some anxiety and resentment toward a new baby that is going to get all the attention and half of his bedroom.

Petey and his friends have their own ideas about where the new baby will come from: the stork will deliver it or maybe the parents will go to a neighborhood baby store where their baby can be made to order and served up piping hot just like at a McDonald's.

THE CHILDREN'S misconceptions about birth are effectively relayed in animation with thought bubbles that are inset into the real-life scene.

An animated version of how the human reproduction system works and how the baby develops in its mother's womb also is used as part of a film presentation that Dr. Lendon Smith, a family pediatrician, makes to Petey and friends to clear up the ques-

Smith, a medical doctor, explains the facts of life just before Petey's mom, played by Candace Farrell, is wisked off to the hospital to have her baby.

The birth of the actress' child originally was videotaped to be shown during a segment of the ABC late night special, "David Hartman: Birth and Babies," which aired three years ago.

The same seven-minute segment is shown during the after school special and gives viewers of all ages a basic understanding of what happens in a delivery

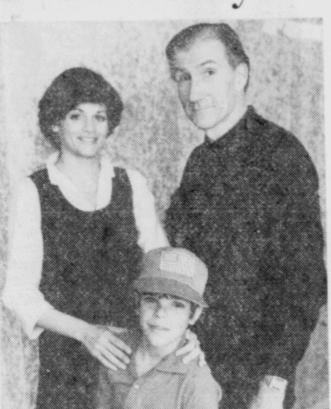

ACTING IS NOT the important factor in this special, although all of what happens in the show is believable.

The important factor is the material. ABC officials went through a handful of potential scripts, looking for just the right approach to what is viewed by most as a controversial and sacred subject.

"We had to make sure we had the right appr to this" what with a pregnant woman playing the mother, a real doctor portraying the family pediatrician, seven minutes of actual birth and several professional doctors advising on the production, said Squire D. Rushnell, ABC vice president of children's

After sympathizing with her husband's problem, Elaine Rushnell said she and a neighbor, Susan Kennedy would give the script a try. After all, who better can write about pregnancy and it's effect on the rest of the family than two mothers who have six kids between them?

"We simply drew on our own experiences. We've explained this many times to our own children and we knew what worked and what didn't. Many people don't realize it, but they can explain conception and birth to their children tastefully and sensitively," Mrs. Rushnell said.

"My mom's having a baby"

· Lee Phillips talks with actress Shirley Mac-Laine today at noon on Channel 2. Ms. MacLaine is performing at the Arie Crown Theatre, Chicago, through Sunday and will star in her own CBS television special March 12.

 Willie places himself and parents in jeopardy by giving aid to a fugitive convicted of a terrorist-type kidnaping on "Family" today at 9 p.m. on Channel 7.

• Part II of "The Graduation" on "Happy Days" brings back memories of having to cram for exams before leaving the ivy halls, at 7 p.m. on Channel 7.

· NBC officials have decided to continue its Friday night comedy "Chico and the Man" despite the recent death of Freddie Prinze. The network will air episodes filmed before Prinze's death and will produce four more segments to finish out the season. The character, Chico, portrayed by Prinze, will decide to move away to live with his father who was played by actor Caesar Romero in a recent episode. Jack Albertson will be joined by regulars Scatman Crothers and Della Reese in the remaining segments

Rickles out to prove he can do a hit show

by VERNON SCOTT

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) - Don Rickles, having failed with ABC and CBS, is working on his third and last network as the star of the NBC situation comedy, "CPO Sharkey."

Rickles, the sultan of insult, plays a choleric chief petty officer in charge of a bunch of inept sailors.

Perspiring as usual, the balding, rotund comedian completed a wild disco dance rehearsal scene for the show and draped himself into a chair.

"LOOK AT me busting my rear end!" he cried to the cast and crew at large. "Who needs this! People ask me why, and I tell 'em I have no hob-

Beneath his veneer of attack oneliners, Rickles is a sensitive, thoughtful man who rankles at his inability to establish himself as a television regular. The failure of both previous "Don Rickles Shows" has hurt.

Now, with two strikes on him, Rickles has a chance to belt the ball out of the park. As Chief Boatswain's Mate Sharkey he has the perfect vehicle for his own malevolent humor.

"In the other shows I was yelling at everyone for no reason," he said. "Sharkey is a chief petty officer who is a natural barker. All CPOs are.

"I HAVE SOME characteristics in common with Sharkey, including the same sense of humor. He ribs people like I do because he likes them and protects them in his own way.

"I see him as a lovable guy. When he tells the sailors they're yoyos and hockey pucks they know he means Rickles was only half kidding about working himself to death on the show six days a week. He is a rich man and doesn't really need a weekly series to keep the wolf from the door.

He plays Las Vegas eight weeks a year. Another four weeks are spent in Tahoe and Reno clubs. He also plays four theaters in the round every year in addition to making television guest

"I'LL TELL you why I'm doing 'Sharkey,' " he said. "I want to prove to myself I can succeed at a weekly

"I always get great reaction when I'm a guest on other shows, but I've never made it on my own show. It's a facet of my career I want to develop. It's as simple as that."

Rickles' producer is Aaron Ruben, the same man who produced "Gomer Pyle" and produced the last two years of "You'll Never Get Rich" the old Sergeant Bilko show starring Phil Silvers.

Both Ruben and Rickles believe the world is ready for another military comedy hit. "M-A-S-H" currently is the only one of the genre on the air, tender.

and it frequently is more drama than

DON RICKLES

COMEDIAN RICKLES is anxious to disassociate Sharkey from Bilko.

"Sharkey isn't a con artist like Bilko was," he said. "I represent the establishment to the sailors, but I also fight the Navy brass. My commanding officer is a female (played by Elizabeth Allen)."

Rickles is a Navy man himself. He spent part of World War II in the Philippine Islands aboard a PT boat

"I got to know about chief boatswain mates first hand," he said. "I was really intimidated by them.

"We've made Sharkey a well rounded figure. He has his sentimental moments. And he isn't always in charge of the situation. For instance, he has a tough time getting broads.

"Turndown is Sharkey's middle name. When he does get a girl interested in him she wants to mother him.

"This whole show feels better to me than the others I tried.'

Energy problems focused

Cousteau explores land in upcoming PBS series

by JOAN HANAUER

NEW YORK (UPI) - Jacques-Yves Cousteau has temporarily abandoned his exploration of the sea to help son Phillippe exlore the environmental problems that threaten the planet Earth, man's oasis of space.

"Oasis in Space" is the title of the six half-hour documentaries that the Cousteau Society has produced for PBS, to be shown weekly beginning Feb. 22. In them the Cousteaus will examine the problems involving food, water, energy alternatives, industrial pollution and overpopulation, as well as "opening a window on the future.'

"For the future, I am hopeful — with a lot of ifs" Jacques Cousteau said in an interview, sitting behind a desk in his sparsely furnished office at the Cousteau

"I AM OPTIMISTIC because I know all the remedies are there, to control population, provide food, find energy alternatives, organize sharing of resources.

"The thing that baffles me is that we could solve all these problems if we wanted to. Technology has all the solutions on the shelf and what makes me pessimistic what makes me talk about 'ifs' - is that nobody wants to reach up on the shelf for the solutions.

He blames what he called the feudalism of the international marketplace - in which no country is willing for its industry to be at the slightest disadvantage - for at least some of that unwillingness to accept available solutions and alternatives.

HE HOPES THE PBS series, which shows starvation in Appalachia not Bangladesh, population problems in Central America not India, mercury poisoning in Canada not Japan, will hit Americans close to home and help promote some solutions.

"These are not my shows, they are Philippe's," Cousteau said. "Philippe has been working for nine years within the structure of my television shows, helping me make my shows. It's only fair that he have the opportunity to develop his own personality as well."

After 37 hour-long programs for ABC, why the switchto PBS? Because ABC now is putting those 37 Cousteau adventures at sea into syndication, which will be very profitable for the network, although Cousteau will not gain by it.

"WE HAVE FOUND that once our films entered syndication, it was practically impossible to get another show of the same nature on one of the three commercial networks," he said.

"In any case, the three networks today are competing with each other by showing - with some exceptions violence, the worst possible things, sensation at all costs They are hysterical about violence and have practically eliminated decent documentaries.

"I thought we needed one or two years to prepare another assault on national television.

Cousteau hasn't given up adventuring for documentaries, however. He has signed on to produce four hourlong adventure shows a year for three years, to be aired on PBS beginning in the 1977-78 season.

The shows will deal with lost civilizations, including Minoan Crete to Atlantis, which Cousteau described as "the best known - perhaps not the most interesting. but the most famous."

Gospel of peace on shaky ground in war-torn land simple question: "Seven years of vio- peace, there were only hundreds. lence - had enough?"

Underneath, an unknown hand has scrawled another: "We have - have To find the answer, small groups of men and women nightly flit across the tribal demarcation line separating the Roman Catholic and Protestant communities.

They are the "Peace People" of Northern Ireland, ordinary folk with hope in their hearts and fear in their eyes, who attempt to talk away centuries-old prejudices over cups of tea and cookies.

TO DATE, their success has far exceeded even the most optimistic prediction. But there are signs the moment of truth may be at hand.

Just six months ago, two Roman level. Catholic women — Betty Williams, 33year-old Belfast housewife, and Mairead Corrigan, former social worker and secretary - organized the Women's Peace Movement amid an emotional upsurge that swept across the

They met at the graveside of the three young McGuire children who were crushed to death when a wounded gunman's getaway automobile mounted the sidewalk. For Mairead Corrigan, an aunt of the dead children, the sight of the little white coffins was the answer to the question in the government's post-mind for several years. "There comes a time to each one of us when we can take no more," she said. "That time had come for me. I had enough." THE TWO WOMEN embraced in tears and pledged themselves to oppose violence in all its forms until peace was restored to Northern Ire-

"We knew the risks involved," Mrs. Williams said, "But there was no turning back."

Their campaign met with an immediate response. Huge, emotional gatherings of Roman Catholics and Protestants marched together behind the simple banner of "peace."

Ancient taboos were swept aside. Protestants poured into Catholic strongholds to sing hymns and hold hands: Catholics marched down the Shankhill, traditional nerve center of militant Protestantism.

THE CAMPAIGN swept across the Irish border, bringing tens of thousands into the streets in emotional support of the Belfast women.

That was the high point of their public rallying call.

Mrs. Williams and Miss Corrigan, joined by journalist Ciairin McKeown, a student of political philosophy, took their appeal to foreign capitals.

They flew to the United States, to Britain, to Europe, where the Norwegians gave them a peace award and $350,000. Wherever they went, the peace trio won acclaim and garnered much-needed funds for their campaign. BUT WHEN they returned home, they found that much of the impetus had gone from the movement, much of its work had gone sour. In the tough, working-class ghetto areas there was hostility to the jet flights and the television guest ap-

"People are dying in Belfast — not in Oslo," they shouted at the women.

The Provisional wing of the outlawed Irish Republican Army, which saw in the Peace Movement a real threat to its domination of Roman Catholic ghettos, mustered all its propaganda techniques to smear the women. SOME OF ITS street daubings were crude: "Shoot the women collaborators."

Others were more subtle: "Where's the money, Betty?" It rallied its own women supporters

- wives, mothers and sisters of jailed or slain IRA members. It provoked ised earnestly, "and if they won't, I'll confrontations in the ghettos. The bash them.

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (UPI) peace women were pelted with stones - A huge government poster on a and rotten eggs. Soon, where there billboard near the city center asks the were thousands willing to march for

"WE NEVER thought it would be easy," Mrs. Williams said.

But the criticism of their foreign travels bit deeply. They announced a six-month ban on such trips. The move did not stop the IRA-inspired hostility in the working-class areas.

On the Protestant side, the hooded paramilitaries of the Ulster Defense Assn. at first remained silent in the face of massive public support, but later grew hostile and threatening.

Politicians, too, began to waver in their initial backing. They also saw in it a threat to their own preserves. IT CAME TO a head when the Peace Movement openly announced it was politically motivated, though not in the party sense but at community The Social, Democratic and Labor party, the political voice of Northern minority, accused the peace leaders of undermining their position. "They are well-intentioned but naive," said Paddy Devlin, chief whip of ment," Mrs. Williams said later. "We have to convince everyone that we are being backed only by those who believe in peace," she said. WITH THE PUBLIC rallies behind them, the peace campaigners have concentrated on building peace at community level More than 100 groups from both communities meet regularly across the religious divide to plan how to spread the gospel of peace.

Despite opposition from some Protestant quarters to the peace leaders, all Roman Catholics, the movement has spread into schools where youth peace groups have been organized.

The peace women know they have a vast goodwill behind them, much of it too fearful to come into the open, but ready to give secret backing. "FEAR IS the real enemy," Miss Corrigan said. "The ever-prestnt fear of retaliation by the IRA or the paramilitaries. "That is what we are fighting, and it is a slow, thankless task."

For the first time in seven years, McKeown sees a glimmer of light. "It won't come overnight," he said, "But I know we are going to succeed." But to do so, the peace women must win over the ghettos on both sides of the community divide. It is in the ghettos that the violence breeds, where people die, where the IRA and the UDA hold sway. "WE HAVE MUCH more support in the ghettos than is generally known," Mrs. Williams said. "It is growing The Peace Movement has made one bold stroke against the paramilitaries. It organized "escape routes" for members who wanted to get out. So far, they have helped several dozen youths who have been resettled in peaceful surroundings. "It is something concrete against violence," Mrs. Williams said. WHATEVER THE ultimate fate of the Peace Movement, it can boast of one convert of distinction. Last October, 10-year-old Geoffrey Hill puckered his freckled face and told the peace campaigners that he hated all Roman Catholics. "Why?" he was asked.

"Because I do," he replied. "And when I'm big, I'm going to fight them," he added. But two weeks ago, Geoffrey joined a peace group in his all-Protestant school, pledging himself to make friends with his Roman Catholic neighbors. "I'll try to make friends," he prom-

Witness to St. Valentine's Day shootout can't forget

(United Press International)

Raymond Barnabee was just 12 years old on Feb. 14, 1929, the day Al Capone seized control of the Chicago crime syndicate.

But he remembers the "St. Valentine's Day Massacre" as if it were yesterday.

Barnabee grew up just four doors away from the garage at 2122 N. Clark St. where seven men were gunned down gangland fashion. He is one of the few persons alive today who witnessed the scene.

"I WAS UP ON the second floor, sitting on the window," Barnabee, 60, recalled. "I saw these four men get out of a grand Lincoln touring car it looked like a police car. Two of the men were dressed like policemen, but they weren't.

"All I saw was this car. A half hour later I find out that there's six men killed." The seventh died later.

Barnabee was seeing Capone's Valentine's Day greeting for members of the George "Bugs" Moran gang, whom Capone suspected of killing his benchmen and hijacking his liquor.

Seven men, most of them members of the Moran gang, had gathered in the garage waiting for Moran to show up, supposedly to buy a load of hijacked liquor.

SUDDENLY, THE door to the garage burst open and in walked the two men in police uniforms carrying machine guns, followed by two men in civilian clothes, packing sawed-off shotguns.

"Nuts," remarked a member of the Moran gang. "A pinch."

The "police" lined the seven men up against a wall, frisked them, and then all four men backed away. On a nodded signal, they opened fire, spraying bullets at their helpless victims until they crumpled in pools of blood.

George Patey, a Vancouver businessman who later bought the garage wall from the city of Chicago, said fessional those gunmen were, of the mind It looked like a battlefield." 100 rounds of .45 caliber bullets they fired, only eight were direct hits into the wall The rest went through the

"The more significant a story is, the more satisfying for the reporter. For that reason, I feel fortunate to have been sent to Washington, D.C., in October to cover the low-income housing case between the Village of Arlington Heights and the Metropolitan Housing Development Corp. The national significance attached to the case made the assignment exciting and fulfilling."

Staff writer Bill Hill's interest in the proceedings didn't end there. He stayed on the story to bring Northwest suburban readers further developments as they occurred.

The Herald gained Bill's reporting skills in May 1975, when he became the Barrington reporter for Paddock Circle newspapers. Six months later, he joined The Arlington Heights Herald as municipal reporter.

A 1975 graduate of the University of Illinois, Bill has a bachelor of science degree in journalism. He is a member of Sigma Delta Chi, Society of Professional Journalists.

Bill spent summers and vacations as sports editor and general assignment reporter for the Morris (III.) Daily Herald. He also worked on his college newspapers.

In view of Bill's enthusiasm concerning matters of the court, it is fitting that most of his free time is spent on those of the basketball and tennis variety.

However, Bill shrugs off any possibility of negotiating with the Bulls and plans to concentrate on political reporting and ultimately becoming a newspaper editor.

Where are you now that we need

IN THE BEST interests of baseball for the good of Cub fans everywhere, for the good of us all - we beg you, we beseech you, we plead, we implore, we get down on our knees. . .

VOID THE BILL MADLOCK

Is that asking a whole lot? Ordinarily, Cub fans don't ask. We're not used to getting much, so we don't expect anything. Low expectations keep us in our place.

WE NEVER COMPLAIN. We've never insisted on a pennant. Sure, we were so inured to losing that it simply didn't hurt. We were numb.

We came back to the park anyway, didn't we? We came back because we loved the Cubs in spite of the losing. We've always loved our Cubs - from Hank Sauer to Ernie Banks and Billy Williams, from Frankie Baumholtz to Jose Cardenal and Randy Hundley.

We love our team because we love our players. That may sound strange to you because you have seen what happens in Philadelphia and New York and places like that where they boo their athletes unmercifully. They boo because they grow impatient and they grow impatient fast.

But Cub fans are different.

Byline report

Art Mugalian

You can't know what it is like to not remember your team's last pennant. So Cub fans have learned to live with whatever they can get - an occasional glimmer of hope in a miasma of

THAT'S WHAT Bill Madlock was to

You are probably less than enthusiastic about the idea of voiding another controversial deal, especially after winding up in court the last time. And yu might be a little bit gun shy since the Finley case is still pending.

But if our principles mean anything to you (and surely they must) you will step in and tell the Cubs that they can't take Bill Madlock away from us.

This is not a trade for talent. This is not a case of the Cubs saying to us, "Fans, be patient. We are getting the better of the deal. Just wait and see."

THEY USED THAT argument when they acquired Madlock for Fergie Jenkins. Most fans were enraged then, but the Cubs were right. Madlock was worth it.

Now they try to use the same argument but we know it's a sham. The Cubs traded Madlock to punish him, ey so they punished him.

But Madlock's punishment didn't fit his crime. And his crime will go unpunished because eventually Madlock will get what he wants. Bill Madlock won't suffer.

We, the fans, are being punished. And for what? For being fans, for cheering for Bill Madlock, for committing ourselves to him. We are being punished for spending the time and the money and the emotion on something that is, in the end, beyond

MR. COMMISSIONER, we know that Wrigley Field has been your showcase in the past. It has been a place where baseball has thrived, where the game was played as it was meant to be played, where the fans loved the game for what it was - a game for fun and not some selfish, unquenchable quest for profit and

Granted, the owners and players have contributed equally to the growing problem that you and other sports commissioners face today. Perhaps it is a problem that can't be reconciled. Perhaps professional sports are

But if the Cub francise dies, then baseball will die. That is a certainty that you must surely admit. And the to make an example of him, and we Cub francise will die if you let them know it. He asked for too much mon- trade Bill Madlock, maybe not immediately and maybe not simply because

That may seem like a harsh judgment to you. You may think that we will forget Bill Madlock. We may even adopt Bobby Murcer as one of our own. That may happen.

BUT WHAT ABOUT the next time? We always respected P. K. Wrigley because he seemed to respect the fans. He stuck to day baseball, he kept ticket prices down, he never resorted to artificial gimmicks. He never took advantage of the fans just in order to make money. So why is he taking advatage of us now in order to save a buck?

If he had come to us and said, "Look, Bill Madlock is asking for more money than I can afford, so if you want him to stay here, we're going to have to raise your ticket prices," then we would have understood. But Wrigley didn't give us a choice. With cynical glee, it seemed, he traded away his best player -Our best player.

So, Mr. Commissioner, if your job is to protect baseball and its best interests, then you will return Bill Madlock to Chicago. WE'D BE FOREVER grateful.

Forest View can be a real spoil-

Mustangs seek clincher against upset-minded Falcons

"We expect that Rolling Meadows will be coming over here looking for a win," said Forest View basketball coach Ted Wissen on the eve of tonight's Mid-Suburban South headliner. "I guess they can clinch it with a win over us.'

Wissen and his young upset-minded Falcons would be more than happy to throw the South title chase into a final-night showdown Friday between Rolling Meadows and Elk Grove. The spoiler's role sits well with them. In order to do that, though, the Falcons will have to gain revenge for an earlier loss to the Mustangs.

A MEADOWS WIN tonight or an Elk Grove loss to visiting Hoffman Estates would clinch the title for coach Bill Weinberg's Mustangs. No mathematical loophole would remain for Elk Grove. Despite two straight defeats, the Grenadiers are still alive for South honors.

The Falcons (6-4) host Meadows (9-1) and the Grens (7-3) welcome Hoffman Estates (6-4) in the two most important games on tonight's schedule. In other action, Palatine plays at Prospect and Arlington hosts Maine West. All games are set to start at approximately 8 p.m.

Rolling Meadows, 13-8 over-all, is coming off a crossover loss at Arlington a week ago. The inactivity doesn't especially concern Weinberg.

"I don't know what effect not playing last Friday or Saturday will have on us," he said. "But we needed the rest to heal a couple of injuries. Everybody's healthy now."

THAT INCLUDES 6-8 center Kevin Kiley. The towering senior with a 14point average has been in and out of the lineup lately with a bad knee. The Mustangs are at a disadvantage when Kiley is less than 100 per cent. He scored 24 points the first time the

"A lot depends on Kiley," admitted Wissen. "We have a hard time matching up with him."

Forest View has come a long way since losing, 67-66, to Rolling Meadows in mid-January. The Falcons have won five of their last six South contests and they have a good shot at

"We're small and we're frail and we're not particularly quick either," said Wissen, who nonetheless has watched his team knock off contenders Hoffman and Elk Grove in the past 10 days.

LED BY TOP SCORER Jeff Martinski (14 ppg), the junior-dominated Falcons still manage to get the job

"We know we can't relax against Forest View," said Weinberg. "They seem to have settled things down because they have good shooters like Martinski, (Craig) Chuipek, (Chris) Hanson, and (Rick) Gardner.

"But this is one of those games where they have everything to win and nothing to lose," added Weinberg. "We have everything to lose. I don't know whether our kids think this is the big one or the Elk Grove game is it. But they know what the score is."

A lot of teams have tried to play spoiler in the South this year, but Forest View has succeeded where the others have failed.

Tonight the Falcons try again.

Bill Weinberg: A win tonight earns title.

The Cubs Monday announced they have signed contracts from six more players, including pitchers Ray Burris and Rick Reuschel, to bring their total under agreement to 26.

Both Burris, 15-13 last season, and Reuschel, 14-12, signed multiyear contracts, the Cubs said.

Others signed were catcher George Mitterwald; shortstop Mick Kelleher; and pitchers Ramon Hernandez and Mike Krukow.

Splittorff, Hasbach sign with Royals

KANSAS CITY, Mo. - Arlington Heights' Paul Splittorff and Palatine's Dave Hasbach are among 30 of the Kansas City Royals who have signed new contracts, it was announced Monday.

Splittorff has inked a five-year pact of an undisclosed amount, according to Royals' General Manager Joe Burke. Splittorff, a lefthander who prepped at Arlington High School, now lives in suburban Kansas City.

Hasbach, who played high school ball at Palatine, signed a oneyear contract with the Royals. He spent last year in Triple A ball Splittorff, who spent much of last season on the injured list, joined American League batting champ George Brett, center fielder Amos Otis, pitcher Doug Bird and first baseman John Mayberry, who are also on five-year contracts.

Jazz 31, Pacers 30

The upset of the year. Jazz 31 and the previously undefeated Pacers 30. That tight 1-3-1 defense displayed by the victors was the difference in this AHYBA playoff game. The Pacer guards could not penetrate the defense, however, Jim Messineo had little trouble solving the Pacers defense as he topped all scorers with 11. Messineo had lots of help from both Brian Owens with 8 and Mike Bouchard who contributed another 7 points as he performed well as "Chaser" in the Jazz offensive game plan. Greg Marshalla and Scott Reishus were giants on defense as they controlled the boards for the winners while scoring 3 and 2 points, respectively. Chris Peterson, John Hribar, and Ricky Johnson also played a super floor game. D. Kane was the big offensive gun for the Pacers as he canned 10. S. Sharpe followed closely with 8. D. Pritchard had 6. and three players, J. Meyers, B. Soucek and J. Schurr scored 2 each.

St. Zachary 46, Pacers 36

St. Zachary 46, Pacers 36
St. Zachary held a 5 point lead at halftime over the tough Pacers as Payne and Grubbe carried the offensive load. The Pa-Grubbe carried the offensive load. The Pacers surged in the third period to trail by one as the fourth period got underway, however, St. Zachary turned it on offensively to pull away to the victory. Payne was high point man for the winners with 14. followed by Grubbe with 12. Hurd was heard from as he canned 10 more. Graczyk got 6 and Vickers 4 to help seal the victory. The big story of the game was the 19 point effort by D. Kane who tried his best to keep the Pacsrs alive. Pritchard hit for 8, J. Meyer had 4, Shart got 3 and S. Leonard contributed 2.

Jazz 47, Rockets 38

Jazz 47, Rockets 38

Mike Bouchard scored almost at will, as he scored 18 points in helping the talented Jazz to advance to the finals of the AH-YBA playoffs. Jim Messineo and Greg Marshalla, each exploded for 10 points each and Marshalla dominated both boards with his rebounding. Messineo contributed 8 assists and played great defense. Brian Owens found the Rockets defense to his liking as he numbed in 7. Jazz 47, Rockets 38

The obsession of Gary Gabelich

This is a story of human bondage of unrequited love - of a man pursuing a cruel mistress who mocks him and taunts him or rejects him at every turn.

You may remember in the original by Somerset Maugham, the object of the affections was a slatternly waitress (Bette Davis) who looked to the poor wretch (Leslie Howard) like all the great beauties or love goddesses of antiquity.

In this case, the goddess is Speed. And the worse she treats him, the more Gary Gabelich loves her. He's under her window every night with a bouquet and a guitar no matter how many flower pots she showers down

YOU WILL ALL recognize Gary Gabelich as the man who set the world land speed record — 622.407 m.p.h. — at Bonneville on Oct. 23, 1970. It was the only time his beloved really returned his affections. Since then, she has been as easy to embrace as a tigress. None of this discourages Gary Gabelich.

You will recall Maugham's hero in the book gave up a great deal to pursue his bondage - money, profession, friends, art. But Gary began his by giving up the moon - almost literally. Back in 1959, Gary was one of a

American-Rockwell. The government wanted to send him to school to become an astronaut. But it required he give up his hazardous pursuit of land speed records, drag-boat marks, and

Gary wouldn't give her up for anything. Not even when she cradled other men in her arms, threw drinks in his face, or scorned him. On April 7, 1972, Gary was running a drag race car through the slot at Orange County Raceway when it smashed into a guard rail, turned over, burst into flames, lost its wheels and rear end, and slid 200 feet down the runway until it finally tried to sneak under the guard rail, shearing off half-a-dozen eight-by-eights in its path. When they pulled Gary out of it, his left leg was pointing in a different direction from his right, his hand was hanging to his arm by a few threadlike tendons.

They thought if Gary ever took a steering wheel again it would be by hook, but seven leg operations and three hand operations - and $33,000 later - they had sewn a reasonable facsimile back together.

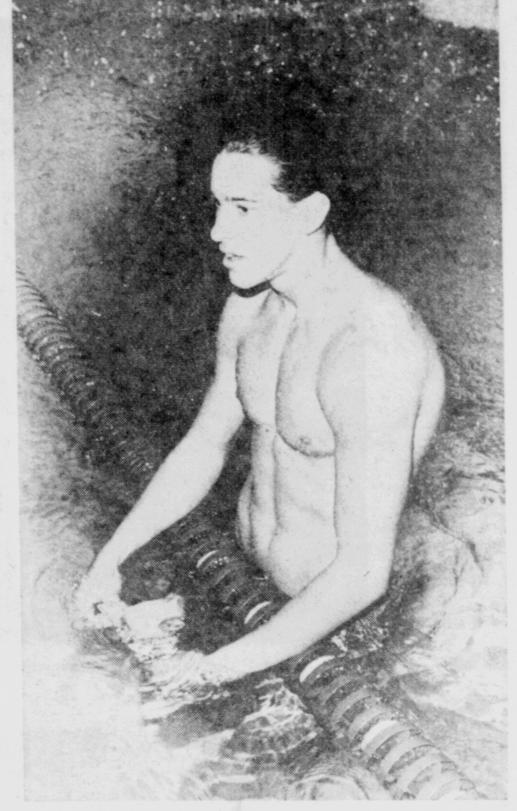

BUT THAT WAS not the worst of it. Gary became hooked on the narcotics and the pain-killers he took for that year. He turned himself into a clinic. "I signed myself in. I figured I would be better to kill myself by boat or car than needle or pill.'

Gary took to lecturing drug-battered youngsters at police clinics - and went back to his own original addiction, the goddess of speed. In 1974, on Lake Turlock, she spurned him again. His boat began to turn crazily over on its side at 200-m.p.h. and to bounce along the water disintegrating as it went. So did its driver. Gary ended up with a liver split in half, a kidney shattered, and bones snapping like firewood all around him.

But no sooner did the docs reassemble Gary again and he was right back ringing her doorbell and pleading for her hand all over again.

GARY IS ONE of the attractions at The Boat Show at the Los Angele Convention Center where a mockup of his proposed rocket speedboat is on display, together with a film of his land speed mark, and a car he proposes later to build to attack the sound barrier.

You'll have no trouble. He'll have this love-worn look. Also he's going back for more. I don't think even a letter to Dear Abby could help poor

Legalizing new state gambling forms considered

by STEVE BROWN

Organized gambling in many states has become a popular alternative to increasing taxes, and there are signs Illinois lawmakers soon may legalize new forms of betting to increase the state's gambling revenue.

Bingo, the lottery, and parimutuel wagering on horse racing brings $100 million annually into the state's $6 billion treasury. Some legislators believe that amount can be increased by introducing four new forms of wagering — jai-alai, casino gambling, policy numbers and off-track betting.

Opponents to organized gambling contend expanded betting in the state is not needed.

"IF THE only way to rinance education, mental health and welfare is through gambling, then that does not say much about this state," said Anthony Scariano, retiring chairman of the Illinois Racing Board.

"We need tax reform, we don't need more gambling," the former state legislator said.

"My only interest is getting a little more money for the state. I believe I am proposing a way to make at least $3 million to $6 million," State Rep. Monroe L. Flinn, D-Cahokia, explained as his reasoning for sponsoring a bill to legalize jai-alai.

A federal study last year concluded that many states are watching attempts to legalize gambling before organizing their own betting systems.

Jai-alai, for example, once was played only in Florida but the sport, which resembles handball and is played on a three-sided court, has spread to Nevada, Connecticut and Rhode Island.

THE REPORT said there are 44 states with some form of legalized gambling — mostly bingo — but 37 states are considering expanded gambling operations.

Nationally, there appears to be support among taxpayers for more legalized gambling.

After a three year study, the Commission on the Review of National Policy Toward Gambling, said that in 1974, 61 per cent of the nation's adults gambled. The commission also said a sampling of public opinion showed nearly 80 per cent of the respondents favor some form of legalized gambling.

But the report attacked the argument that legalized gambling is a painless method to raise money.

"In fact, legal gambling is a regressive form of taxation — that is, the poor pay out a greater proportion of their income than the

Proposed games of chance

Here is a brief outline of what some public officials in Illinois have proposed for expanding gambling in the state:

• Casino gambling. Las Vegas style operations with slot machines, black jack, crap tables have been called for by several Chicago aldermen.

• Jai alai. Once confined to Florida, this sport, which features one-and two-person teams uses a three-walled court. The rules are roughly equivalent to handball, and it is played with long, basket-like paddles. Bettors wage on the order of finish of the players or teams Policy/numbers. Usually a lottery-like game controlled by organized crime. Daily winners are determined by a formula using race track results.

• Dog racing. Not yet proposed in Illinois, this sport allows for parimutuel wagering similar to that for horse racing. Trained greyhounds are used to race either quarter-mile or three-eighths mile tracks.

• Off-track betting. Some states have established betting parlors for horse racing away from tracks. It has been expanded to other forms of sports betting, mostly in the East and Nevada.

rich — while income taxes are the least progressive," the panel's report stated.

IT ALSO CONCLUDED that it is cheaper for a government to levy and collect income and sales taxes than it is to collect gambling revenue.

The federal study also said legalized gambling fails to diminish illegal gambling operations.

Scariano agrees.

"The big gamblers who want to remain anonymous will still use a bookie, even if yu have off-track betting here. That was shown

THE PROLIFERATION of messenger betting services in Cook County has caused several members of the Illinois General Assembly to call for a study of off-track betting. Lawmakers also took a step closer to outlawing the messenger services, which have operated without regulation since 1975, when a legislative committee studied the matter.

State Rep. Michael Holewinski, D-Chicago, who leads the subcommittee on the messenger services, said his panel did not have the authority to look into the off-track betting situation, however.

Some argue a move to control off-track beting would cut the handle and atendance at race tracks, which some race track operators contend already is happening because of messenger services.

It appears the only municipal interest in gambling as a moneymaker is in Chicago where proposals for local lotteries, off-track betting and casino gambling have been suggested.

Besides the steps taken to legalize jai-alai and policy numbers, Chicago officials frequently have called for local efforts to develop a city lottery and off-track betting parlors.

The late Mayor Richard J. Daley called for off-track betting as he was attempting to ban the operation of the messenger betting services that have sprung up in Cook County.

SEVERAL CHICAGO aldermen, including Edward Burke, recently suggested the city consider legalization of casino gambling. The call comes on the heels of the decision by New Jersey voters to legalize casinos in Atlantic City as a means of bringing in revenue and rejuvenating that aging resort town on the East

There is a consensus among lawmakers, however, that legalized gambling operations in the state should be under one jurisdiction.

"We should not be doing this piecemeal, there should be one agency to control things," Rep. Flinn said. "We need to take a look at what this will do to the guys on the streets who will be playing these games."

In Illinois, the Illinois Racing Board oversees wagering on horse races, the state department of revenue regulates bingo and a special lottery commission handles the state lottery.

"ALL OF THE GAMBLING ought to be under one roof," Scariano said. It would be easier to police gambling operations with one commission, he said.

Illinois lawmakers generally view income or sales tax increase proposals as political suicide, but pleas for salary increases and rising budget needs could make expansion of legalized gambling more acceptable.

The public officials maintain and the federal government's study shows that the taxpayer appears more willing to give the government money through gambling taxes than through other forms of

Author's answers in outer space

ERICH VON DANIKEN remains in pursuit of ancient astronauts and his theory on ancient beings who visited our planet. Von Daniken and others involved in the study of extraterrestrial ancestors will meet in Ds Plaines Feb. 26 during the Ancient Astronaut Society's mid-winter meetby DEBBE JONAK

Everything was down to earth except the conversation.

Erich von Daniken, Swiss author of books about ancient visitors from outer space, sat at the Ramada O'Hare Inn, Des Plaines, in a conservative blue sport coat with a slightly mismatched tie.

His small audience of reporters sipped coffee or soft drinks, and listened to him talk quietly about alien beings sprinkling bacteria on earth as if he were discussing the stock market.

"IF SOMEONE talked with me for three hours, he'd never say this is nonsense," von Daniken said.

The group had only an hour, but the 39-year-old former hotel manager packed the minutes with facts about his theories and

Renowned for his book, "Chariots of the Gods?" von Daniken was in Des Plaines to promote the Ancient Astronaut Society's mid-winter meeting, Feb. 26 at the Ramada O'Hare Inn, Higgins and Mannheim roads. He is a member of the organization, which exists to determine whether extraterrestrial beings visited the earth in the distant past.

Von Daniken said he knows the answer. While "Chariots" was speculation, his more recent books confirm his early conjectures,

He held one of the proofs in hand — a miniature model rocket, designed by an engineer using a Mexican pyramid carving as a ARCHITECTS SAY the carving depicts a Mayan priest sitting on a religious altar. The engineer says it is a Mayan Indian in an early flying machine - probably propelled by a magnetic field.

Von Daniken agreed it is an air vehicle, adding the knowledge to construct such a craft must have come from extraterrestrial

When not documenting his discoveries in books, the author is traveling around the world looking for more proofs.

This summer he plans to visit the Mogoolala, a Brazilian tribe which he hopes will lead him to an underground gold mine of

The tribe chief revealed a warehouse of ancient machinery is buried 2,000 miles in the deepest jungle, von Daniken said. Gods came down thousands of years ago and stocked the workshop for purposes unknown, the chief told him.

At last year's meeting, von Daniken said he would visit the Dogons, an African tribe which allegedly knows more about the stars than they could without the use of a powerful telescope. He never made it to the Dogons' land, but read books on the people

The search for his outer space ancestors - von Daniken said they spawned man - began when he still roamed the halls of a Swiss secondary school. He did not attend school beyond the secon-

He questioned religious concepts taught in his Catholic upbringing, rejecting the authenticity of the Bible.

He used the Bible, however, as a stepping stone for his own ideas of life's beginning and development. Many miracles, visions and visits from God actually were contacts by extraterrestrial beings, he said.

VON DANIKEN'S family of dedicated hotel managers saw him as the black sheep when he gave up a career at a little Swiss chalet to research and espouse his unusual beliefs.

"We don't talk religion at home," he said. His 13-year-old daughter, however, is one of his greatest fans.

"My daughter read my books . . . to be frank she told me those who don't understand these books are idiots," he said.

Although many critics say von Daniken's "proofs" are inconclusive and poorly researched, he has received 30,000 letters, of which about 3,000 correspondents are beginning serious research of their own, he said.

They build theories on top of his theories — one thinks he has pinpointed the planet from which von Daniken's early visitors

"Such an impact you cannot stop anymore," he said. "We are beyond the point of no return."

Von Daniken said he will not stop. The biggest expedition lies in the uncertain future.

Harper sets master plan for growth

Harper College administration has been directed to a new master plan to carry through to 1985.

Harper College Trustee Robert Rausch said the existing master plan designed to extend through 1983 no longer is an accurate measure.

"Our current long-range plan is obsolete," he said. "The college we expected in 1983 is here now.'

Compounding the need for a new plan, he said, is anticipated suburban growth in the Harper area. "WE'RE NOT JUST talking a modicum of growth," Rausch said. "We're talking substantial growth." Northern Illinois Planning Commission (NIPC), Rausch said, has projected 15 Harper communities will grow to a population of 640,000 in 23 years — double the 1970 census total. "These are the figures upon which municipal and state bodies are right now planning for roads, for sewers, for water sources, for public transportation and for all other things necessary for a growing population." THE NEW MASTER plan resolution

We're just as upset as you are about those plunging temperatures and escalating heating bills. So, we've done something positive about it. Something that is a simple, practical step. Something every homeowner in the Northwest suburbs should look into—immediately.

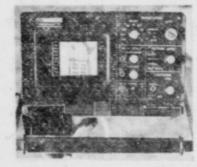

THERMOGRAPHY—HOW IT WORKS

A handheld infra ray scanning camera, which can spot temperature differences is used to identify heat loss in your home.

Thermography is a tested, safe way to measure variations of hot and cold. It works like an electronic thermometer, showing you precisely where you should concentrate your heat-saving efforts. Thermography lets you enjoy more comfort at less cost. It actually detects heat losses in your home. And heat losses mean wasted dollars. Heat losses mean wasted fuel . . . fuel that is going to cost more and more each year, experts say.

CAN YOU CUT HEATING BILLS 25% - 35%?

If you could identify exactly where your heat losses are occuring, you could take corrective action, right? Things like caulking all the critical (but difficult to see) points. Adding weatherstripping where it is needed. Installing more insulation where it will do the most good. By doing those simple things, you should be able to cut your heating bills up to 25% or 35%. You could eliminate those expensive, uncomfortable drafts and chilly spots that this record-breaking Winter of '77 has produced in even the best-built homes.

Play to make your bid

South's jump to four spades was definitely an overbid. He did hold a tremendous hand, but there was no reason for South to expect that dummy would produce two tricks for him and unless he could find those two tricks he would not be able to bring home the game. Still, South did bid it and we have to sympathize with his decision.

West started proceedings for the defense by leading out the king, ace and queen of clubs. East discarded two diamonds and South ruffed the third South thought about the fate reserved for overbidders, but there was nothing he could do about it. He had bid four spades and had to play it. He had lost two clubs and was still looking at a sure spade loser. Was there anything he could do about it?

Yes, there was. Maybe West held the singleton king of spades. South played his ace and sure enough the king dropped. Now it was a simple matter for South to cash the ace and king of diamonds, ruff a diamond and make his lucky game.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE - Here's how to work it: AXYDLBAAXR is LONGFELLOW

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.
